Though polar caps on Mars were discovered over 100 years ago, details of their composition and bizarre morphology have only recently been revealed with orbital measurements from Mars Global Surveyor and Mars Odyssey. Dr. Thomas will present new interpretations of dynamic seasonal cap processes and implications for martian climate.